Yeggmen Jailed in Lethbridge

Lethbridge, Alta., Sept. 28.—A gang of three bad men invaded Lethbridge yesterday, and tonight all three are in the cells. They robbed a Chinaman of money in the till of a restaurant, and knocked him out, last night. They are typical yeggmen, and the police think they have a part of the gang that have been operating in the West.

Nelson Shields for Local Schools

We are authorized to state that Rt. Hon. Lord Strathcona's Nelson Shield has been offered by Rev. Alfred Hall, of Toronto, to each of the Schools in the Crossfield Inspectorate.

There are no charges or conditions. The British and Foreign Sailors' Society, which received the "Victory" copper from the Lords of the British Admiralty, has undertaken the expense of mounting, engraving, and distributing these historic Shields; and only asks some voluntary contribution to reimburse them, and aid their Sailors' Institutes for men of the Royal Navy, Merchant Ships, etc., in Canada and all over the world.

These Nelson Shields are highly valued for their patriotic and educational uses in the Universities, Colleges and Schools where they are already placed.

Private Colleges and Schools are eligible to receive the Nelson Shield, and should apply for them.

A Nova Scotian's Idea of Crossfield

On Tuesday, Mr. Arthur T. Parker paid a last visit to the Chronicle office and gave the following report on Crossfield and district:

For the last two years, at least, I have received letters from my brother, Mr. F. R. Parker, who has been living in Crossfield and vicinity to come out west and visit the country, especially Crossfield. I seriously gave the matter a thought, and a little over a month ago, arrived in Crossfield, and found that things were really better in general, than had been explained to me. I stayed in the town for a few days and then began my journey to go about the Province, visiting a number of the towns, and also the two cities, Calgary and Edmonton. This, of course, took up about two weeks' of my time.

Since then, I have visited, both in and about, the country of Crossfield, for many miles east and west, and taking things from a general stand-point, can find no place, which can compare with it. About a week ago, I came up from Calgary with my brother, Mr. F. R.

Parker, and then drove over to the village of Acme, which is so much talked of. Things seemed fairly good around that part of the country' not only did the crops look fairly good, but cattle and horses, and everything one can speak of, were in fine condition, considering the year which the people have had to contend with. However, I made this trip for more of an inspection of the country than for anything else, though, to get acquainted as well.

Since returning from Acme, I have become personally acquainted with a large number of Crossfield's residents, whom I shall never forget, and also with a large number of the farmers, whom I have visited when out on shooting trips.

Speaking the truth, I will state that the Nova Scotia crops cannot beat the Alberta grain harvest around Crossfield.

On Friday evening last, I was up to a dance held here, and can say "that I could not have enjoyed myself better;" finding people very sociable and jovial. On Saturday, however, I felt the effects of a good time, but, which will make one always remember the days when I was in Crossfield.

Mr. Arthur T. Parker expects to leave Alberta about the tenth of this month for his home in Shubenacadie, N. S. stopping at Winnipeg, Man., a short while.

E. H. Riley will not dispute McArthur's Election in Gleichen

Although there are between fifty and seventy-five disputed ballots in the boxes used in the Gleichen by-election, Mr. Riley's representatives gave out yesterday that they would not do anything in regard to the matter, and instead of a court being held to decide whether the ballots are good or not, they will be opened at Gleichen today when the final count is made and credited to the candidate they were cast for.

The final count takes place before W. W. Brown, the returning officer, and it is possible that if anything, Mr. McArthur's majority will be increased. The disputed ballots are the ballots which were challenged by the agents of the candidates and placed in envelopes instead of being let go into the ballot boxes in the ordinary way. As there are not enough of them to make any appreciable difference in the result of the elections it was decided by both candidates to withdraw all protests and let the ballots be credited to whoever they were cast for. Although Mr. McArthur has received a majority of 33 in the Rosebud poll, the detailed returns from this poll are still lacking.

Post Office Troubles

The delivery clerk in the country office has much to annoy him. There is a drummer who wants any letter that may come for him during the next ten days forwarded him at New York; the man who wants to know if a letter now will go east on the 2:50 train; the boss mailed a letter without a stamp and wants it back; six men who forgot their box keys and want the mail handed out to them; the woman who knows there must be a letter for her, asks the clerk to "look again;" the man who gets angry and wants the smart clerk to "come out on the sidewalk just two minutes."—Canadians Journal.

CANNIBALISM REVIVED

SOUTH SEA ISLANDERS ARE AT THEIR OLD PRACTICES.

To Rev. James Chalmers Is Due Most of the Information Which We Now Have of the Habits and Customs of the Man-Eating Tribes of the South Seas—He Was Exposed by the Natives of New Guinea.

The civilized world read with a shudder the news brought by Tonga island cannibals of two Presbyterian missionaries, Rev. Horatio Hopkins and Rev. Hector McCheson.

An added significance was given to the tragedy of martyrdom by the report brought to Seattle, Wash., by the barquentine Mary B. Wilkinson that among the natives of the Tonga, Solomon, Cook, Society, and other South Pacific island groups there was in progress a general revival of ancient heathen customs.

The most atrocious of these customs is cannibalism, and it is especially significant that the first item of news with regard to the so-called revival tells of cannibalism on an island in the group which was supposed to have traveled further than most on the road of civilization. The Tonga, or Friendly Islands were the scene of some of the earliest and most successful attempts at mission.

It was in this region that the first great missionary of the South Seas, John Williams, laid the foundations of an extensive work of Christianity.

REV. JAMES CHALMERS.

The best-selling Villiellu, Gibbon calls him, spent at least six millions of money on table in a many months. He invented, or he took invention for him, a dish which he designated "the shield of Minerva." One of its principal ingredients was the tongues of flamingoes, of which both Pliny and Martial speak in encomiastic terms. Tampi says that the flamingoes have "large tongues, and near the root is a piece of fat which is accounted a great dainty." When Captain Owen was surveying the east coast of Africa, he said that he had seen hundreds of these beautiful birds in order to have an extravagant worthy of Villiellu, to make a dish of the tongues alone.

A Singular Request.

A peculiar fete is said to overhance the family of the late Sir John Gullielm. An ancestor of his, so says the legend, once gave shelter to a robber at his death left to him a bequest of a mysterious box which was to remain closed to be opened until the customary seven days of mourning. It opened before that time a spirit would fall upon the family. Curiosity got the better of superstition, and the box was opened before the seven days were up. In its contents a document which said that as the injunction of the rabbi had not been obeyed, the future of the order would be succeeded by a son. And so Villiellu, as enough, has been the case ever since.

The Tonga, or Friendly Islands, lie to the southeast of Fiji, on the twentieth parallel. They are British, having been wholly acquired in 1890, when Great Britain ceded all her rights to Germany in the Samoan group.

To James Chalmers a great deal of the world's later information as to the customs and superstitions of the South Sea Islanders, friendliness and cannibal alike, is due. But for his own descriptions of some of these heathen readers might have been rather puzzled as to how a man in the new despatch about the natives who captured the missionaries holding "a corroboree for two days and nights."

The sorcerer talked with the spirits which the South Sea Islanders believe remain around their dead. He said that life leaves the mundane body. If anything went heavy—rain, drought, a hurricane, or an epidemic of disease—the kaevakuku asked the spirits what was the cause. The sorcerer, perhaps exercising a little discretion and a little private spite of his own, would attribute the displeasure of the gods to some particular and often innocent individual of the tribe, who must therefore be killed and eaten.

The power of this kaevakuku may be seen in an experience of James Chalmers when he was cruising among the islands to the south of New Guinea. Being a Christian teacher, he treated a powerful sorcerer of Yule Island with scant courtesy. The sorcerer immediately took the stand of a walking delegate and called out all the missionary's powers. The missionary tackled the kaevakuku single-handed and, being a man of some spirit, he finally convinced the sorcerer that he had better let his rowers alone.

The missionary's boat proceeded, followed by a prophecy of the sorcerer that the missionary and all his people would be killed at the next island (Maiva). The crew of the boat were very depressed, and the missionary arose. The natives took it to be the first onset of a prophecy about to be fulfilled. When the missionary entered the boat it was all the missionary could do to convince them that it had no connection with their chances of being killed and made into "long pig."

They escaped death at Maiva. Later the kaevakuku conspired with two chiefs to have the missionary and his people fulfilled upon Chalmers and his people. The missionary went and converted both rulers and their subjects. At the end of the conspiracy, although later about twelve persons, mission teachers trained by Chalmers, were put to death according to aboriginal ideas. This atrocity, which called for a British warship and a commission of investigation, revealed that the chief called Kopena, who had led the murderers, was under the influence of Quabo, a sorcerer. Kopena was acquitted and the kaevakuku was shot. Not only in the Tonga Islands, but in most of the groups of the Pacific, there still linger enough natives, who have been cannibals in their time, to stir the rest of the people to animism should it be true that a general revival of ancient custom is in progress at the present time.

A Tale of Russian Wolves.

A man was telling about an exciting experience in Russia. His sleigh was pursued over the frozen wastes by a pack of at least a dozen famished wolves. He arose and shot the foremost one, and the others stopped to devour it. But the moon came up with him, and he shot another, which was in turn devoured. The wolves were so numerous that the family wolf was almost upon him with yearning jaws when—

"My partner," broke in one of the listeners, "according to your reckoning, that last famished wolf must have had the other eleven inside him."

"Well, come to think it over," said the story teller, "maybe he wasn't so darned famished after all."

Clerical Slips.

An English clergyman, discoursing upon Bunyan and his works, exclaimed a titter among his hearers by exclaiming, "In fact, days, my brethren, we want more Bunyans!"

Another clergyman, pleading earnestly with his parishioners for the construction of a cemetery for their parish, asked them to consider "the deplorable condition of 30,000 Christian Englishmen living without Christian burial."

Still more curious was this clerical slip. A gentleman said to a minister: "When do you expect to see Deacon S. again?"

"Never," said the reverend gentleman solemnly. "The deacon is in heaven."

Flamingoes' Tongues.

The best-selling Villiellu, Gibbon calls him, spent at least six millions of money on table in a many months. He invented, or he took invention for him, a dish which he designated "the shield of Minerva." One of its principal ingredients was the tongues of flamingoes, of which both Pliny and Martial speak in encomiastic terms. Tampi says that the flamingoes have "large tongues, and near the root is a piece of fat which is accounted a great dainty." When Captain Owen was surveying the east coast of Africa, he said that he had seen hundreds of these beautiful birds in order to have an extravagant worthy of Villiellu, to make a dish of the tongues alone.

In its contents a document which said that as the injunction of the rabbi had not been obeyed, the future of the order would be succeeded by a son. And so Villiellu, as enough, has been the case ever since.

Trade With S. G. Grow.

Canada's trade with the United States continues to grow in greater proportion than Canada's trade with Great Britain, in spite of the latter's preferential tariff, yet Great Britain is a better purchaser of Canadian products than is the United States.

Trade statistics are now complete for the first two months of the present fiscal year, and they throw a curious light on the policy of Canadian importers. Thus, while Great Britain bought $15,070,281 of Canadian goods, the United Kingdom sold almost an equal amount to Canada, more than $15,000,000. The United States bought from Canada $14,048,081 worth, or more than twice as much as Great Britain. The United States $4,773,681 worth, or more than $9,266,400 in excess of purchases from the United Kingdom. The purchases from the United States are $15,000,000 more than during the same period last year.

Railway Bonuses.

Canadians have bonused the construction of railways in the past 34 years to the extent of $169,000,000, or, besides large land grants. This includes all government and municipal bonuses. In the same period of time there have been built and put in operation 19,000 miles of railway lines.

Not What He Expected.

"Oratory is a gift, an acquirement," said the proud politician as he sat down after an hour's harangue. "I understand," said the master of the chair, "we're not giving you. You done the best you could."

Never Saw the Country.

"Three-fourths of the children in the London board schools have never seen the country," said Dr. Baile, at a Barmyday meeting. "I spoke to numbers of boys of fourteen who did not know what a farm was."

WHEELS IN THE WEST.

The Growth of Manufactures Marks a World's Record.

Winnipeg is not the only place in the world with wheels. In all probability there is no place in the world so large a number of manufacturing towns jumping up in a new country in so short a time as happened in the last ten years—five for that matter in the vast idle nowhere of the wheat belt.

It may be an old-fashioned idea, this having just passed a century of progress in a wilderness of waste. And it's the beginning of a curious phase in the progress of the world's industry already before the West has found it self in economics there are two distinct classes of people quite outside of politics.

One is the farmer; the other the manufacturer. Now it's only a few years since that meant practically the West as "opposed to the east. We have seen the ploughman on the prairie that the West was being led for the sake of industrial pockets in the east.

But almost suddenly we are confronted with the fact that in the West also is being up a class of people whose interests are to keep a reasonably high tariff wall. For the West is beginning to be an industrial country. There are scores of young towns and little cities that are yearning to use as much as possible of what the west needs.

Regina, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Lethbridge, Moosejaw, Graino, Albert, Portage la Prairie, and a whole series of young communities in new parts of the land—all are becoming as much interested in the manufacturing industry as any part of the east.

Does the western farmer want the smokestack and the power-house kept out of the West? That seems improbable. The western farmer owns something to the town and city. He will not do well to forget that a town on the prairie is as much an industrial center of stores and shop fronts and places of amusement. The town as a hive of industry has as much right to develop as the countryside. The city has a place in the development of the country as much as the farm.

Each place is growing up. They will continue to grow. The cry for lower duties is never more heard. The West has as much inherent right to develop its water powers and its minerals as the east. It is the east ever had. What does that mean—bad factories? And how can factories develop under free trade—Canadian Courier.

But that's a very narrow estimate of what development really means. The farmer and the tradesman and the elevator employ are not enough to make cities. There must be population who prefer the factory to the farm.

Lettuce Cream For Summer Use.

A good cream for heating tanned and irritated skin: Four ounces minced lettuce and one ounce cream. The lettuce is washed and the cream is added. The mixture is stirred with boiling water and allowed to stand a few minutes. Pour on the water and pound the lettuce in a pestle in an earthen bowl or mortar, then strain through cheesecloth. Mix the first ingredients in a duplicate bowl over a slow fire. Do not let them come to a boil. Just melt them, then drop by drop add the lettuce juice, constantly beating the cream with a fork until all the juice is added and the cream perfectly smooth and cold.

A Box of Snakes.

Mr. A. W. Gilbey writing to The Field the popular hain Zam-Buk, the hedgehog lately, saw a hen pheasant sitting on her nest with two common snakes coiled round her neck. He rattled stick, when both the snakes scuttled off, and he killed them. The pheasant was quite unconcerned, and never left the nest. The keeper thinks they may have got there for warmth. He never heard of a similar case.

He Feared Blood Poison.

But Zam-Buk Saved His Thumb!

Once again a case is reported in which the popular hain Zam-Buk has saved a worker from the terrible effects of blood-poisoning. Mr. Alfred H. Orin, of Shipley, Ont., says: "While at work I had the misfortune to run a rusty nail through my thumb nail, to the depth of about one and a half inches. The pain was terrible and, when I experienced no relief from dirty and rusty, would set up festering and blood-poisoning. I knew from previous experience that Zam-Buk was, so I cleaned the thumb, melted a little Zam-Buk, and ran it on the wound. The result was wonderful! It soothed the pain and the thumb actually did not swell. Zam-Buk kept away all inflammation, was able to go on with my work all the time, and in a few days the thumb was as good as ever. A balm which can do this should be in every working man's home."

Zam-Buk is the finest form of "insurance" for all workers. Its antiseptic power is so great that no disease germ can live in it; and if immediately applied to the nose or injured or discolored, all danger of blood-poisoning is averted.

Being composed of pure vegetable essences, Zam-Buk is an ideal balm for babies and young children, and mothers will find it far superior to the ordinary ointments which can contain harmful mineral poisons, rancid animal fats, etc.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by the use of the Eustachian Tube. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running ear, or it is imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation is removed the hearing is restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

Postoffice Money Boxes.

The British postoffice is a wonderful institution, and when we are inclined to grumble we should remember that fifteen millions of half-penny packets and letters are conveyed daily; that 250,000 telegrams are sent off every day; and that every twenty-four hours $1,250,000 is transmitted by money orders and postal orders.

And now the Postmaster-General has introduced a fresh innovation. People are to save their money in a box instead of running to the office every time they want to make a deposit. The saver is to have the box, and the postoffice will keep the key; and when the saver wants to make a deposit, he will go to the postoffice and connect the postoffice with the lives of the people. Not that a link of affection does not already exist, but that a link of affection is needed to connect the postoffice with the lives of the people. Not that a link of affection does not already exist, but that a link of affection is needed to connect the postoffice with the lives of the people.

C. P. R. will place Big Area on Sale at Once

That the tale of the return of the American settler to his own land is a myth will be conclusively proved at Bassano today, when two car loads of x-e-l-to-do farmers from Iowa and neighboring states are expected to arrive.

The C. P. R. has reopened its land office for the next two months and it is rumored that Bassano shall be the sales headquarters for that company for the remaining part of 1910 and the whole of 1911.

It is also the intention, apparently, to open up 60,000 acres of non-irrigated land at the first of the month in the district, about twenty or thirty miles north of Bassano and east of Dead Horse lake. The projected C. P. R. line from Didsbury, on the C. & E., to Kinlavin, on the main line, which is even now building, will run through this section, so that no part will be more than ten miles at the most from the railway.

Boys Fooling ends fatally

London, Oct. 7.—Earl Barrett, aged 16, who lost his life, was putting in his first day's work at D. S. Derr's biscuit factory. John R. Wells and Sam Givier are in the Victoria Hospital with fractured skulls, and it is stated cannot live. Alex. Russell, also of this city, sustained a fractured shoulder and knee cap. Barrett was the elevator operator. He and the others were fooling, and someone shoved a truck under the car when it was going down. The elevator was blocked, the cable just uncoiling, and when the truck was knocked out the car fell with all the cable, and the boys dropped about six stories.

Amundsen has Decided on Antartic Expedition

Christiania, Oct. 5.—According to a letter received here from Captain Roald Amundsen on board the Fram at Madera, Amundsen has decided to proceed on an Antarctic expedition. He proposes to send details when he arrives at Punta Arenas. What has caused this change of plans is not known as it was the original intent of Amundsen to start early next year on a voyage for the north. The Fram was first to go to San Francisco, where it was to be fitted out, and it was calculated that the drift though the polar ice would occupy not less than half a year.

Prince Haun had Narrow Escape

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—George Fong was arrested with a heavily-laden revolver on him by detectives who got a tip that he was worth watching. Fong was arrested on the quay, as Prince Tsai Haun was boarding the steamer Chico Maru, to return home. Fong is a member of the Young Chinese Association, which is revolutionary, and has sentenced the prince to death. Fong admitted he intended to kill the prince.

Alabama Negro Lynched

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 5.—An infuriated mob of 100 men took Rich Withers, a negro, from the jail at Andalusia and burned him at the stake early today. The negro had assaulted Mrs. Stukey.

Lake Ontario is very Low at the Present Time

St. Catharines, Oct. 5.—In contrast with the abnormally high water level reached by Lake Ontario a couple of years ago the present shows an abnormally low level. Those who have watched the lake closely declare that the waters have receded between two and three feet. Some people around here think there has been disturbance of the earth under the lake.

Brakeman Killed Another Injured

Weyburn, Sask., Oct. 2.—Oliver C. Matheson is dead, and C. Briscoe is seriously injured as the result of the blowing out of a locomotive cylinder head on Saturday afternoon. The men were both brakemen and were working in the yards near the engine of the gravel train, which was ballasting the new line to Lethbridge.

When the accident happened both men were immediately rushed to the hospital, but Matheson died in a few hours. His chest and lungs were badly crushed. Briscoe was struck in the face, and should he recover will be disfigured. Matheson's remains were shipped to Moosejaw on Sunday morning.

Both Parents are Sentenced to Die

Barrie, Ont., Sept. 30.—To be hanged on the 14th of December, was the terrible sentence pronounced by Mr. Justice Britton this morning on both Mary Dolan and Thomas McNulty, convicted of murdering their illegitimate baby and throwing it into the waters of the river confined in a suit case. It is a sentence without precedent in the annals of Canadian criminal justice in as much as the mail prisoner never saw, much less laid hands on the babe, yet he is condemned to die for "murdering."

Toronto, Oct. 7.—It is understood that it is not the intention of the town to press for the carrying out of the death penalty in the case of Mary Dolan and Thomas McNulty, sentenced at Barrie to be hanged on Dec. 14 for the murder of their illegitimate child.

THE EDITOR, CROSSFIELD CHRONICLE.

Sir:

Last week, I, in common with one or two other citizens of the village, received notice that all pigs were to be removed outside the Town limits, the reason given being that the City fathers had suddenly seen a grave danger to the health of the community by the keeping of a dozen or so of pigs in the Town.

I would like to take this opportunity of informing the Council that the person upon whose complaint they acted, who, by the way is an ex-councillor, was very far from having the health of the Village in mind; in fact he has taken this move purely and simply out of spite towards myself. If he really fears an outbreak of some disease or another, why did he not complain long ago when the weather was much warmer and flies (now recognized as amongst the greatest carriers of typhoid germs) much more numerous than they are now.

My only regret is, that in taking the above action he has put other people besides myself to more or less inconvenience, but I suppose that a mind capable of such petty meanness is quite incapable of seeing this far.

Now, Sir, if it is really the intention of the Council to take steps to prevent an outbreak of Typhoid fever, a very laudable intention indeed, would it not be well for them to instruct their Sanitary Inspector to investigate the condition of a good many of the closets in Town, and in cases where he finds that pitare being used in connection with closets (and I may say that I have the authority of a Councillor for stating that such are being used) to prohibit the use of them altogether, as it is well known that these pits are the worst possible menace to the health of any Town, more especially where the water supply is entirely dependent upon wells.

I imagine that after the Inspector is through with this trip he will wish that his duties took him no farther than handling letters to innocent owners of pigs.

In conclusion I would say that whilst I am quite prepared to obey the by-laws of the Village, I am surprised that the Council should have allowed themselves to be made such an easy mark of.

Yours truly
R. L. ASHDOWN

The Nelson Shields

Arrangements for their distribution in Canada

Aged as the venerable High Commissioner for Canada is, he has a gleam in his eye that penetrates the future; and as the future of any people is wrapped up in its youth, Lord Strathcona has, of late had the youth of Canada much in his mind. This is seen in many ways. His benefactions to McGill and other educational bodies, his munificent gift for physical culture, and his part in a great educational movement which is just now crystallizing into definite form, by the arrival of the representative of the British and Foreign Sailors' Society in Toronto, which is to be the headquarters of the Nelson Shield scheme, all go to prove his many-sided interests, when the plan of making up the metal from Lord Nelson's ships into commemorative and competitive shields for schools was brought to his notice, seeing instantly how such a trophy would serve education ends of the highest sort, Lord Strathcona gave $5,000, that many of the schools of the Dominion may obtain this trophy which is of such historic interest. He hopes that annually a paper may be written on a sailor subject, which will be of education and patriotic value to the youth of Canada; and that the shield will be presented on prize day, and held by the successful scholar for the year. It was clearly not only the naval glory of Nelson's career, but the great lessons of contemporary history that Strathcona had in mind. When he received the first of the special shields struck for Canadian schools at the Mansion House, London, he said: "It would be difficult to think of a greater service to the British empire than to have the thought of its sons and daughters annually directed to the sea, its sailors, and its ships, and what the nation owes to its brave sons."

Educational and non-military is the supreme note. The shields are made of pure Nelson copper from the "Victory" and the "Foudroyant," without alloy. They are works of art. On the upper corners are the oak and maple leaf. In the upper center is a representation of the "Victory" under full sail. In the lower center is a bust of Lord Nelson, on one side of which is immortal signal, and on the other the date of Trafalgar Day. At the bottom, upon the scroll, are the following words: "Made of copper from H. M. Ships 'Victory' and 'Foudroyant' Presented by Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G. C. M. G., through the British and Foreign Sailors' Society, for Canadian Schools." The letters, "E. R. VII." were added by his Majesty's command, when the copper taken from the "Victory" in her recent accident was devoted to the purposes of the society.

Lord Strathcona's personal interest and generosity have given to Canada a preference in the organization of the shield scheme for schools. The only other part of the empire which has been touched with systematic effort is the colony of Natal, and that was undertaken as a hobby by Rev. Alfred Hall of Durban, who has been brought over to carry out the Canadian project. In an interview in London with the High Commissioner, his Lordship expressed the keen interest in the proposals which are now being submitted to Ministers of Education and Principals of Universities, colleges and schools, by Mr. Hall.

Violent Storms in East and South

Violent storms are reported to have paralyzed telegraphic communications between east and south of Winnipeg during the later part of last night and at present wires are being recovered, but slowly, with consequent congestion of all business. The C. P. R. suffered chiefly between Sudbury and Chapeau, Ont., all along the north shore, where many poles were blown down. To the south the storm centre was in the neighborhood of Fargo, N. D., and the G. N. W. for a time lost practically all its wires with Minneapolis and Chicago. There are indications of severe storms on Lake Superior.

New Zealand on New Line

Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 30.—The postmaster general has received a cable from Sir Wilfrid Laurier urging New Zealand be included in the calls made in the mail service to Vancouver. The Hon. Thomas, however, is indisposed to make any concession to Auckland in consequence of the hostility of the postal officials of the Commonwealth. The next move is awaited with interest as it is not expected New Zealand will give up the opportunity of trade and may deem a good direct steamship service commensurate with its growing importance.

No Trace of Missing Men

Kenora, Ont., Sept. 30.—No trace has been found of the missing C. P. R. foreman Stanley McCannan and Chas. Jones who were lost in the vicinity of the Black river. There additional search parties have been organized by Mayor Beaudreau, making with Indians, seventy-five searchers.

Hope is rekindled by the chief of the White Dog Indians reporting seeing tracks of two white men near Dryberry lake and hearing guns several days' since, but he did not then know any one was missing.

The fact that the canoe had not been found is also encouraging as unless an accident occurred with the weather fine, the men armed and game plentiful, they may still be safe.
